Aktia Bank Plc’s Disclosure Policy updated

Aktia Bank Plc’s Board of Directors has approved the company’s updated disclosure policy, which describes the central principles and procedures according to which Aktia communicates with capital market participants.

According to the updated Disclosure Policy, Aktia observes a silent period that begins 21 days before the publication of the results, or the day after the end of the reporting period in question, whichever comes first, and lasts until the earnings release is published. According to the previous policy, Aktia’s quiet period began 21 days before the publication of the earnings release.

Apart from these changes, the update includes various technical revisions and clarifications, and the updated Disclosure Policy does not contain any significant changes to the principles according to which Aktia operates.

The updated Disclosure Policy, which enters into force immediately, is attached to this release and is also available on Aktia’s website at http://www.aktia.com/en/corporate-governance/disclosure-policy .
